v.

ORDER

This cause comes before the Court on petitioner's motion to vacate, set aside, or correct sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 [DE 68]. In his motion, petitioner (Mr. Anderson) contends that his sentencing as an a career offender was not proper in light of United States v. Simmons, 649 F.3d. 237 (4th Cir. 2011) (en banc) and Carachuri-Rosendo v. Holder, 130 S.Ct. 2577 (2010). The government has moved to dismiss Mr. Anderson's motion to vacate, set aside, or correct [DE 73].

BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2005, Mr. Anderson was indicted by a grand jury on three counts. Count one charged Mr. Anderson with possession with intent to distribute cocaine and cocaine base, in violation of 21 U.S.C. 841(a)(1). Count two charged Mr. Anderson with possession of a firearm in furtherance of a drug-trafficking crime, in violation of 18 U.S.C. 924(c)(1)(A). Count three charged Mr. Anderson with being a felon in possession of a firearm, in violation of 18 U.S.C. 922(g)(1). On August 25, 2005, Mr. Anderson pleaded guilty to counts one and three pursuant to a written plea agreement. At his sentencing, count two was dismissed pursuant to that plea agreement. On April 11, 2006, Mr. Anderson was sentenced as a career offender under the advisory guidelines to 262 months' imprisonment on count one and 120 month's imprisonment on count three, to run concurrently.

DISCUSSION

The government contends that Mr. Anderson's motion is untimely and is not subject to equitable tolling. A motion under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 must be filed within one year of the latest of four triggering events: (1) the date the judgment of conviction becomes final, (2) the date on which an impediment to making a motion that is created by the government is removed, (3) the date the Supreme Court initially recognizes a right that is made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review, or (4) the date on which new facts are discovered through the exercise of due diligence to support a claim. 28 U.S.C. § 2255(f)(1)-(4). Mr. Anderson argues that his motion is timely under § 2255(f)(4) and that equitable tolling should apply.

Although "facts" in this context have been held to include court rulings and the legal consequences of known facts, Johnson v. United States, 544 U.S. 295, 308-09 (2005), the court ruling or legal consequence must have occurred in the petitioner's own case; in other words, court decisions that clarify the law as opposed to the facts supporting a particular petitioner's habeas claim may not serve as triggering events for purposes of the one-year limitations period. Shannon v. Newland, 410 F.3d 1083, 1088-89 (9th Cir. 2005); see also Lo v. Endicott, 506 F.3d 572, 575 (7th Cir. 2007). As Mr. Anderson has pointed to no court order entered in his own case or other newly discovered fact that might serve as a basis for triggering the limitations period under § 2255(f)(4), the instant petition is untimely.

Nor is equitable tolling available to render Mr. Anderson's petition timely. This Court has earlier held that cases such as this could be deemed timely under § 2255(f)(3), finding that the right announced by the Supreme Court in Carachuri-Rosendo v. Holder, ___ U.S. ___, 130

S.Ct. 2577 (2010), is retroactive on collateral review and that equitable tolling could apply if a petition was filed within a short time of the holding in Simmons. See e.g. Mathis v. United States, 7:09-CR-139-BO, 2012 WL 1156438 (E.D.N.C. April 6, 2012). The Fourth Circuit has recently held, however, that the rule announced in Carachuri-Rosendo is procedural and is not retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review. United States v. Powell, 691 F.3d 554 (4th Cir. 2012). Accordingly, Mr. Anderson's motion to vacate is also untimely under § 2255(f)(3). As the Court is unaware of any basis upon which to find the petition timely under the remaining provisions of § 2255(f), the Court must dismiss Mr. Anderson's petition.

Certificate of Appealability

Rule 11 of the Rules Governing Section 2255 Cases (“Habeas Rules”) provides “the district court must issue or deny a certificate of appealability when it enters a final order adverse to the applicant.” Having determined that petitioner is not entitled to relief and the government is entitled to dismissal of the petition, the Court considers whether petitioner is nonetheless entitled to a certificate of appealability with respect to one or more of the issues presented in his habeas petition.

A certificate of appealability may issue only upon a “substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right.” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). Where a petitioner’s constitutional claims have been adjudicated and denied on the merits by the district court, the petitioner must demonstrate reasonable jurists could debate whether the issue should have been decided differently or show the issue is adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further. Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 336-38 (2003); Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 483-84 (2000).

Where a petitioner’s constitutional claims are dismissed on procedural grounds, a certificate of appealability will not issue unless the petitioner can demonstrate both “(1) ‘that jurists of reason would find it debatable whether the petition [or motion] states a valid claim of denial of a constitutional right’ and (2) ‘that jurists of reason would find it debatable whether the district court was correct in its procedural ruling.’” Rose v. Lee, 252 F.3d 676, 684 (4th Cir. 2001) (quoting Slack, 529 U.S. at 484). “Each component of the § 2253(c) showing is part of a threshold inquiry, and a court may find that it can dispose of the application in a fair and prompt manner if it proceeds first to resolve the issue whose answer is more apparent from the record and arguments.” Slack, 529 U.S. at 484-85.

After reviewing the claims presented in the petition in light of the applicable standard, the Court finds that the issue of timeliness is adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further. Therefore, the Court hereby ISSUES petitioner a certificate of appealability as to a review of the finding that the petition is untimely.

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, for the reasons discussed above, the government's motion to dismiss is GRANTED and petitioner's motion to vacate pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 is DISMISSED. A certificate of appealability is ISSUED as to the finding that the petition is untimely.

SO ORDERED.
